

She 'Walked' To Her Death Aiding Others

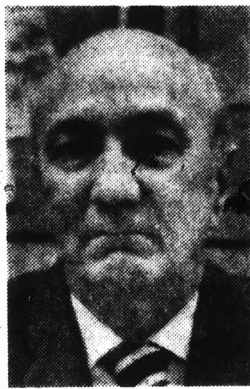

By FRANK LaPIERRE
She was walking so that others may live — and she died.
Monday, two days after pretty, dark-haired Eleni Antipariotis collapsed and died on a Colma street during Saturday's March of Dimes "walkathon" with her school chums silently looking on, no one had the answer why.
Why had this 10-year-old child who, fellow students, teachers and even her parents said, was a picture of health suddenly died?
Eleni had never been sick a day in her life, her aunt Beverly Antipariotis of San Mateo said.
"She was perfectly healthy, never sick or anything," Mrs. Antipariotis said. "This is what makes (her death) that much more tragic."
San Mateo County Deputy Coroner Steve Horton said an autopsy failed to disclose any congenital heart condition.
"She was not born with a bad heart. From all indications her heart was normal," Horton said.
But Horton said he will continue his medical investigation of the case, hoping to come up with the answer.
The "walkathon" was mapped out over a 32-kilometer (20-mile) course through San Bruno, South San Francisco, Colma and Daly City.
More than 900 youngsters from surrounding schools volunteered their time, energy and shoe leather to raise needed money to help children born with physical defects.
Eleni was excited to be part of the march, her aunt said.
"She was so delighted to be given a chance to help other children. Her mother made her go to bed early Friday night, so she would be ready for the walk the next day (Saturday)," said her aunt.
"She got up early and ate a good breakfast. She never complained of being sick," Mrs. Antipariotis said.
The children with whom Eleni was to walk started at South San Francisco's Orange Park and proceeded north along Mission Road to mid-point in Daly City and backtracked down Hillside Boulevard, ringing doorbells and soliciting pledges.
"There were at least 200 children stretched out along the El Camino Real (Mission Street) through Colma," Police Chief Jim Dorris recalls.
Overall director of the trek was the March of Dimes' Sue Cohen, accompanied by her husband, Joel.
Eleni considered the fund-raiser an outing, a way to enjoy the fresh air and sunshine on a lovely spring day, friends said.
She had been back in the area only about a month after a seven-month absence.
Her parents had taken her to the Greek islands — their homeland.
Eleni was born in Montreal, Canada, and had moved here with her parents — John and Soula — in 1969.
The father joined his brother, Nick, in the Paras Painting Co. of San Francisco several years ago.
The eldest of four daughters born to John and Soula, Eleni was the kind of child "that could take the worst tragedy and laugh about it," her aunt said.
"She had a special feeling for others. She loved everything," Mrs. Antipariotis said.
John Antipariotis is a native of Paros, Greece, and his wife is from the island of Crete.
Neither is fluent in English.
The death of their child has left them shaken, more so because there have been no medical explanations for it as yet, explained Mrs. Antipariotis, spokeswoman for the family.
A student at El Rancho School in South San Francisco, Eleni was well-liked, principal Norma Hare said.
Letters of regret and mourning are already being received by the Antipariotis family from students.
There were five checkpoints along the route walked by the children.
At each, a validation stamp was affixed to a card carried by the child, attesting to the miles walked.
The amount paid to the March of Dimes depends on the distance walked.

JESD Candidates Speak Up on Issues

Eight persons — including the three incumbents — will be vying for the three seats up for grabs in the March 8 Jefferson Elementary School District elections in Daly City.

Those in the running for the trustee's posts include Mrs. Dorothy Adams, James Ward Cranna, Mrs. Jean Dennison, John Charles Mortensen, David M. Parker, Joseph L. Rosen, Jamie P. Alegre and Raul Luis Cornejo.

Jean Dennison

Mrs. Jean Dennison is a 44-year-old wife, mother and teaching aide in the JESD. She has lived in the district for the past 15 years.

Asked if she is satisfied with the educational progress being made in the JESD, Mrs. Dennison, who said two sons received their elementary education in the district commented:

"I am satisfied that this district offers adequate opportunities for our children to receive a good education," she said, adding, "we have well equipped classrooms, a staff of personnel whose training as educators exceeds any previous generation, and legislation and financial assistance which produces programs aimed at assisting any child who requires special education assistance."

Mrs. Dennison thinks the JESD is an "exceptional school district" because of the large number of people "who care about their district."

She said she has served with other parents in volunteer activities which range from crossing guards "to the myriad undertakings by the PTA."

Mrs. Dennison has served as Chairwoman of the Advisory Committees for a special education program and has contributed time as a volunteer library aide.

"We have experienced a virtual wave of employee turnover in the district superintendency and with that, in the assistant's levels," Mrs. Dennison said.

This turnover has affected the morale of employees as each superintendent implements his own form of administration, she said.

Mrs. Dennison blames the incumbent Board of Trustees for this inconsistency, while pointing out, "I do not seek to condemn the individuals I would replace on our District Board of Trustees."

In the event the district is forced to reduce expenses because of its deteriorating revenue base, Mrs. Dennison was asked where she would make the cutbacks.

"It would be political suicide" to involuntarily terminate employees of the district, except as a last resort, in the event the district were forced to make budgetary cutbacks, she said.

There are numerous other alternatives, according to Mrs. Dennison, including reduction of the employment level through attrition or voluntary resignations; elimination of positions deemed less vital to the objective of direct education of students and assignment of those employees to line positions.

She might also seek enhancement of employees' income through expansion of non-taxable benefits especially in cases where such benefits can be subscribed to as a group function at costs to the district which would be less than the expense of "unimpressive, token salary increases on which income taxes would be required to be paid," and she would solicit suggestions from informed district employees on the problem.

David Parker

David M. Parker is seeking re-election to the JESD Board of Trustees. At 53, Parker has lived in Daly City since 1957, has two sons and a daughter.

Parker doesn't think any school district should be satisfied with its educational process, because "there is always room for improvement."

"Unfortunately, the only way we have of measuring student progress is by test scores and these can be manipulated by the various agencies."

The candidate said that, when he took office, the JESD test scores looked poor compared to the county norm.

"After four years, we are now not only above the county average, not only better than the state norm, but in general, above the national norm," Parker said.

He credited the JESD staff with making this possible.

"I am quite pleased to be able to say we have made considerable progress and am looking forward to continued progress," the candidate said.

Where the district would make any budgetary cuts, Parker said, would be hard to determine, inasmuch as a declining student enrollment and inflation put the JESD in the lowest administrative cost per student in the county.

"Through realignment and reorganization, we have reduced our administrative expense," Parker explained. "Last year alone, it was reduced $65,000 and this year it was reduced again."

The candidate said that when he first assumed office four years ago, the lunch program cost the district $39,000 annually and was considered "a failure."

"This program is now self-supporting and is considered one of the finest in the county," Parker said.

Parker cited several other areas in which he felt the district has improved service to the children, while cutting expenses to taxpayers.

"Today we are expending $250 more per child directly into the classroom than when I took office. Our

Project Funding Proposals in DC

The recommendations for funding various projects under the Federal Housing and Community Development Act offered by City Manager David Rowe of Daly City received few plaudits from the audience at Monday's regular council meeting.

James Valentine, director of the Guadalupe Health Center at 75 Wellington St. in Daly City, had asked for some $90,000.

The money is needed to expand health treatment at the center, according to Valentine.

Last year, the center treated 22,000 people. This year, with expanded services, more people could be treated, Valentine told the council.

In the past, the city has been the center's main supporter, the director explained.

In fact, the center is located in the old City Hall and uses the facility under an agreement with the city. Funds are quickly drying up, Valentine said.

The director only recently returned from Washington, D.C., where he met with Health, Education and Welfare officials and was told no monies were available.

Mayor Anthony Giammona asked Valentine what effect, if any, the closing of Chope Community Hospital would have on operations of the center.

Valentine speculated the center might get some $134,000 to be used locally to take up the slack in medical services created by the closure.

But Conrad Pavellas of the Original Daly City Protective Association, who has been active in a movement to keep Chope open, predicted the mid-Peninsula hospital would not be closed.

Pavellas, on the other hand, urged the city to make some monetary contribution "no matter how small" to Guadalupe as a way for the city to show the county it supports the center.

Rowe said the center has never been funded with FHCD money.

The City Manager informed Julius Castellani, who asked the council to consider allocating $2,300 to the senior citizens lunch program, that the program did not qualify under the FHCD act, but did qualify under Federal Revenue Sharing, a different program.

Rowe's recommendations for funding projects covered the 1977-78 fiscal year, and included projections for possible funding in the two subsequent years.

The City Manager asked that after the council hears the public's views on the recommendations that the package be sent to the Planning Commission for their review and recommendations.

Although several categories received dramatic cuts in allocation of the funds, one new program was backed by the council with money and words of praise.

Called the "Anti-Crime League," the group is a conglomeration of all the city's neighborhood associations. It emphasizes banding together to fight crime in the city.

And it has worked, police records indicate.

Frank Kavaros and Harold Caulder have pushed the movement in their neighborhoods with measurable success, records show.

A citizens advisory committee, the Community Development Department, and the City Manager all agree that Anti-Crime League should get a $10,000 boost to get the city-wide movement off the ground.

The money will be used to pay for office space where information and assistance can be disseminated.

The total for the three-year funding period amounts to some $2.4 million for 10 projects listed by the city.

priority has been to put the emphasis where it will be most beneficial for the children," Parker said.

James Cranna

James Ward Cranna has served on the JESD Board of Trustees for the past five years. He is married and has two grown children.

Cranna, 56, has been president of the Hillside Homeowners Association twice; a member of the city's General Plan Committee; and has served as personnel commissioner for the JESD.

Asked if he is satisfied with the educational progress being made by district students, Cranna replied:

"In the last four years as a board we have had our troubles. But I now see the sun coming up and believe we are making progress to improve our children's education, as shown by our test scores."

Cranna said his five years as a trustee "have given me an opportunity to review our school system at close quarters."

"In the language of my own merchandising background, we have a quality educational design. Many production problems that previously existed have been overcome," he said.

By personal inclination, Cranna explained, he tends to hold fast to the old values in education which stress basic skills and building character.

"We should not abandon this fundamental program. However, I recognize that our young citizens must receive training in a variety of skills to successfully meet the challenge of our complex world," Cranna said.

The job market, the family structure and the responsibilities of citizenship make ever-increasing demands on the individual, Cranna said. But he is confident that the trustees can organize the school effort, "to give all our students a fighting chance."

Cranna believes the district will not be forced to make drastic cutbacks, even if the district's revenue base deteriorates further.

"With our declining enrollment we may have to decrease staff but with a new Superintendent of Business, I believe a more judicious use of existing funds will aid us in not having to make any drastic cutbacks," Cranna explained.

Raul Cornejo

Raul Luis Cornejo, 36, has been a resident of the JESD area for eight years.

His son attends Woodrow Wilson School in Daly City and his young daughter soon will attend a district school.

"I will work to improve the quality of education for the children of Daly City," Cornejo said, "meanwhile keeping the cost of education down as much as possible to get the most out of the tax dollar."

Cornejo said he would work toward bringing parents, teachers and the school board together for a better working relationship.

"It is important that each knows what the other is doing. I will close this communications gap," Cornejo pledged.

One of the candidate's first priorities would be an assessment and evaluation of all present and proposed educational programs in the district.

"The purpose of this assessment would be to become familiar with present programs and also to be able to logically reduce costs, thereby controlling tax dollars," he said.

The above assessment would be accomplished by review of school files and on-site visits to schools, Cornejo said.

"I would acquaint myself with staff at schools and would plan to meet (with) parents whenever possible. (This) would be an important tool for eliminating present communications gaps that now exist," he said.

Joseph Rosen

Joseph Rosen is a retired teacher who lived in the district for 15 years. His son attends elementary school in Daly City.

Rosen taught in Bay Area schools 37 years, retiring last June.

He said he is not satisfied with the educational progress being made in the JESD.

"I would like to see more attention paid to improving the reading, spelling and math for the student so that the junior high and high schools will stop complaining that they must spend valuable time in re-teaching the basics," Rosen said.

"With all the new students in our schools that are using English as their second language (ESL), we must provide extra help for them in order that they can keep up with their classmates," the candidate said.

How would Rosen cope with further cutbacks in his budget because of a deteriorating revenue base?

"Do not replace every retiring teacher. Encourage the teachers nearing retirement age to take an early Larry Grathwohl — "Bringing Down America" (Arlington House, 1976).

Wow! What a book.

Here is the story of a man who was an FBI informer with the Weathermen. His story is full of excitement. His revelations of the plans of the radical underground for America are spine chilling.

"Bringing Down America" is an adventure story that reads like a novel, but it is a record of true experiences. As the author moves from one experience to another, he keeps his readers on the edge of their chairs.

Meanwhile, he presents the radical groups' plans for America and tells how they move to achieve their ends. The Weathermen doctrine calls for complete control of all individual thought and movement. Once they have won their revolution, they will set up a central committee to run the country. While it is being formed the Weathermen will go about the task of eliminating those who were in power before their revolution.

This means killing them. "Politicians and police will be the first to go. The exception will be clergymen. Weathermen recognize the danger of immediately attacking religious foundations; however, they are committed to do this in time. This methodical elimination of those pre-revolutionary leaders will help prevent a counter revolution," Grathwohl explains.

"The second step in this process is to isolate those citizens who were against the revolution, but were not members of the ruling class. This isolation is to be accomplished in education camps. These citizens will be herded into camps to be taught about the revolutionary government.

"For the poor and working class who rose to help make the revolution a success, the Weathermen will unleash a steady barrage of revolutionary propaganda through controlled newspapers, radio and television."

Weathermen have decreed death for everyone who holds power before the success of their revolution. All media will be controlled and used for re-education; not entertainment. Athletics and spectator sports will be banned. Leisure time will be spent in politically oriented games with re-education as the goal.

The Weathermen look upon Cuba as a Red China as the models for America. They seek allies among the Irish and Canadian freedom fighters and among the anti-Israelis and anti-British groups in Asia and Africa. They believe that, with these groups cooperating, they must make the duly constituted governments of the world fall by bombing power plants, dams, highways and similar works.

The Weathermen believe they have a right to punish industries and governmental organizations that they deem to be enemies of their revolution. They believe such people as Charles Manson and the leaders of the SLA are their allies, although they are not part of their organization.

"Bringing Down America" is a thrilling book that brings actual violence into focus with a ring of truth not found in TV drama or in novels that are pure fiction.

This is a book that many Americans should read.

Drought Could Put Landscaping on Hold

Developers in South San Francisco will be able to postpone installation of landscaping around their projects until drought conditions in the Bay Area are relieved.

The Planning Commission has adopted a landscaping policy as a method of water conservation.

Acting City Planner Bill Costanzo said many developers ready to begin construction have been asking the city planning staff if they may postpone the planting of trees, grass and shrubbery.

Usually, landscaping is a requirement of a use permit, and failure to complete a landscaping plan could result in the city denying occupancy.

"It is, however, recognized that during times of severe water shortages, such as experienced during the years 1976 and 1977, such elements demand a high percentage of water for their continued maintenance," Costanzo said Tuesday night.

The new policy will allow developers to suspend installation of landscaping by posting either a certificate of deposit or a cash deposit guaranteeing future installation.

If plants are installed, they should be drought resistant but types "which maintain to that extent possible a pleasing appearance."

Costanzo emphasized that the policy is entirely voluntary and no developer will be forced to withhold installation of landscaping.

However, many developers have asked for the provision to avoid a financial loss when their newly planted landscaping dies in the dry weather, Costanzo said.

San Bruno Students Donate 13,000 Hours

A total of 13,000 hours of volunteer community services have been donated to various agencies by students of Crestmoor High School in San Bruno, according to John DeFelice, community service coordinator.

Of these, 29 worked at Rollingwood School in San Bruno, devoting their attention toward helping youngsters with learning problems.

In other schools they worked as language aides with toddlers, or helpers in art, science and shop classes. They also helped at the Peninsula Humane Society and Mary's Help Hospital.

Charges Dropped Against 6

Charges against six persons, including two juveniles, in connection with a shooting outside a South San Francisco dance hall were dropped Wednesday during a North San Mateo County court hearing on the case.

Anthony Ray Garcia, 24, 1128 Broadway Ave., Burlingame; Jose A. Duran, 22, and Jesse M. Duran, 24, 140 Linden Ave., San Bruno; Manuel Duran Jr., 24, 115 Garden Lane, Millbrae; and two unidentified juveniles had been charged with intent to commit murder and conspiracy.

The charges surrounded a shooting incident outside Morales Hall, 209 Miller St., Jan. 30, in which four shots were fired into a crowd of people following a clash between two groups.

No one in the crowd of some two dozen persons was struck by the shots, fired from a .38-caliber revolver.

Youth Charged In DC Shooting

An 18-year-old Daly City youth has been charged in the shooting of a youth at the War Memorial Building on Mission Street during an argument over a basketball game.

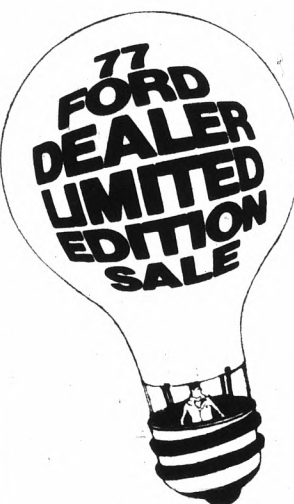

Arrested and charged with assault with intent to commit murder and possession of stolen property was Robert Fronda, of 1319 A Chalsea Court, No. 3, Daly City.

The victim, Edward Britten, 17, of Daly City, is reported in stable condition today at Mary's Help Hospital where he was admitted Wednesday afternoon for treatment of a gunshot wound of the foot.

Detectives investigating the case said they received "positive identification" from the victim which led them to Fronda.

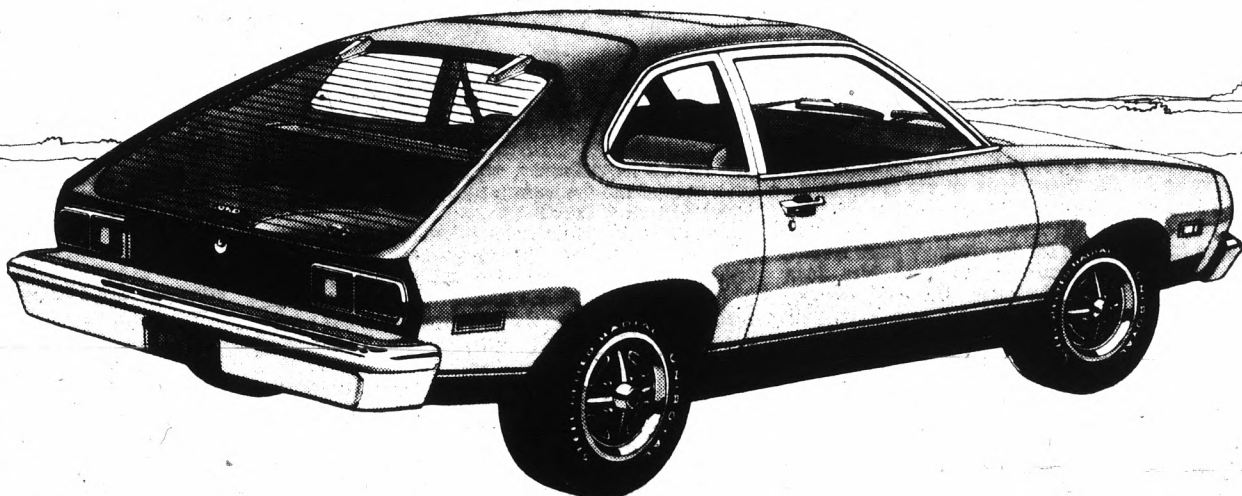

When the police approached the home, Fronda allegedly, threw a .22-caliber automatic out a rear bedroom window.

Standing outside the window was Officer Paul Bruemmer.

retirement (using inducements such as offering part-time work in the district). And make plans to cut down on vandalism of school property," Rosen said.

Another area where money could be saved is through less waste of supplies such as pencils, papers and other such expendable items, the candidate feels.

Dorothy Adams

Mrs. Dorothy Adams is a housewife and mother who has been on the school board for the past eight years and has lived in the district for some 18 years.

She is "in no way satisfied" with the educational progress being made by students in the district.

"Jefferson School District has 20 specially funded programs, most of which have been operating here for less than four years.

"These programs are directed toward staff and pupils who, for various reasons, are not experiencing success in the regular program.

"The academic programs of the district have been reorganized and are still in the process of articulation," Mrs. Adams said. "There has been measurable improvement in many areas."

In many instances, however, Mrs. Adams said she did not fully understand the impediments affecting students; and she would not claim to have a rapid remedy at her disposal.

"I am encouraged by recent educational progress of students, but in no way satisfied — qualitatively or quantitatively — with current achievement," she said.

In the event of further budgetary cutbacks, Mrs. Adams would be reluctant to cut any student programs at least "until all other alternatives are exhausted."

"In the past, the board has approved fire and burglar alarm systems in order to prevent huge increases in property insurance rates. We have switched to private carriers for industrial accident coverage, (saving) 50 per cent in other districts," she said.

Schools have been closed and students transferred to cut transportation costs; staffing patterns have been re-evaluated; purchasing procedures changed; and work assignments altered in an effort to hold the line on money spending in the district, Mrs. Adams said.

Jaime Alegre

Jaime (Jim) P. Alegre, 38, has lived in the JESD seven years. Married, he has four children, three of whom attend schools within the district.

Alegre said he has heard complaints emanating from within the high school district that the youths they are receiving from the elementary district schools are not properly trained in basic skills, meaning much time is spent re-teaching them.

"I have (also) heard the high school people say that the attitude of many of the students we send them is less than desirable," Alegre said.

"I see a gap. If the district test scores are high, as some claim, yet the students we send to the high schools are said to be generally pool achievers, then perhaps a better communication system might be an answer," the candidate feels.

He said he would like to see youth in the JESD able to realize their potentials; "to read and write to the best of their ability and be provided the motivation to do more; to be comfortable with themselves and others; to attain survival skills that will make them competitive in the business world; and be cooperative and humane individuals."

"This, I feel, is a well rounded individual. Someone who can work, think and reason, but is understanding and cooperative," Alegre said.

He could not be specific in what cutbacks, if any, would be required by any deterioration of the district's revenue base.

But, Alegre said he would ask that the school superintendent obtain varied opinions from teachers, parents, specialists, coordinators, principals, custodians, secretaries and other staff personnel on where cuts might be made.

"If cuts have to be made, perhaps getting cooperation from the staff that has to live with these cuts might ease the pain a little," Alegre said.

John Mortensen

John Charles Mortensen, married, with two children — one of whom is now attending a Daly City school — has been a businessman in the area for a number of years.

Mortensen wants to rotate school board meetings in different schools. He would encourage more participation by people in the city at school board meetings.

And Mortensen wants informality at these meetings.

To achieve that, Mortensen would suggest coffee breaks, at which time trustees and the audience might comment on various matters "off the record."

He also would involve more people, such as senior citizens, to become volunteer teacher aides.

"This will be beneficial to all, especially to the students who will have an opportunity of sharing the vast experience and skills that adults can offer," the candidate said.

He also would encourage school administrators to make use of undeveloped lands around the schools for the purpose of planting and growing vegetables by students.

"This will familiarize children with the possibilities of cultivating food and taking more pride in their schools," Mortensen said.

Mortensen, who has been endorsed by the San Mateo County Committee on Political Education, AFL-CIO (COPE), wants to assist children in the district schools in becoming happy and well adjusted to school life.

This would prepare them for adulthood where, he said, "education is paramount."

Tragedy

Eleni was about halfway through the walkathon, when she "just suddenly fell down," an unidentified walker told Colma police officer George Carleton.

Quickly, Joel Cohen began mouth-to-mouth and cardio-pulmonary resuscitation to Eleni.

He worked feverishly, a bystander said.

But when paramedics from South San Francisco arrived on the scene, they failed to find any life signs.

At 1:55 p.m. little Eleni Antipariotis was pronounced dead by medical authorities at Kaiser Hospital in South San Francisco.

Her parents asked that instead of flowers, cash donations be made to the March of Dimes in her memory.

"They feel she died while trying to help others. In death, they feel she would want it that way," Beverly Antipariotis said.

The Regent

By Mylene Schwimmer
Commissioner of Publicity

George Haley, brother of the acclaimed author of "Roots," Alex Haley, addressed 250 Jefferson Union High School District students on Feb. 22 in the Serramonte Little Theater.

Haley spoke of his life, his family, "Roots," and his brother's story's effect on America and the rest of the world.

Haley said it often puzzled him and his brother Alex that "Roots" became such a success. He feels it is because our nation has become mature enough to reflect on past problems and see where we are in American history.

Time was allotted for an interesting question and answer session.

After the speech and questions, students met in small discussion groups. Haley visited each group.

Doris Ward of the San Mateo County Office of Education arranged for Haley's visit to Serramonte.

Students selected from all six local high schools were able to participate in this interesting and exciting event.

FOUR SERRAMONTE students have been selected to compete in Bank of America's 1977 Achievement Awards Program.

These top ranking students and their study fields are James Theis, science and mathematics; Debbie Hutton, liberal arts; Tia Speros, fine arts; and Lorraine Bonnici, vocational arts.

These seniors, who each receive an engraved plaque, will compete on March 24 with students from other high schools. Judging at this zone event will be conducted by a panel of educators and business and community leaders, and will be based on written compositions, group discussions, scholarship and civic and school activities.

First place winners in this event then advance to the regional finals. Second and third place zone winners in each field receive $100 and $75 respectively.

In addition to the four "plaque winners," 11 other seniors received certificates of merit for superior performance in specific study fields.

They are Teresa Geimer, art; Sam Martinez, drama; Tony Ramos, music; Katherine Milani, English; Susan Aronovsky, foreign languages; Robert Foiles, social studies; Jean Unsworth, laboratory science; Felix Hon, mathematics; Loreline Yee, business; Allison Weaver, home economics; and Steve Gersh, industrial arts.

ALSO DESERVING commendation are five Serramonte students who are winners of South San Francisco Elks Club Scholarships.

First place winners of $175 each are Robert Foiles and Janice Lewbin; second place of $125, Katherine Milani; fourth place of $25 each, David Young and Felix Hon.

Robert Foiles, Janice Lewbin, and Katherine Milani, the school's top winners, are still in competition for San Mateo County-wide awards.

RECENTLY, "Theatre Flamenco," a group of dancers and musicians, performed at Serramonte.

The performance consisted of African, Flamenco, Hindu, and American (jazz and ballet) dancing and music.

"Theatre Flamenco" is sponsored by the Gerbody and San Francisco Foundations and was enjoyed by many Serramonte students.

Serramonte's Boosters Club, the main purpose of which is to promote and support the athletic and athletic programs of both boys and girls at the school, will meet on March 8 at 7:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

Everyone is welcome to join the Serramonte Boosters Club. Membership is $5.

AT 7:30 P.M. on March 9 in the Serramonte faculty room, the Serramonte P.T.S.A. (Parent-Teacher-Student Association) will hold its monthly meeting.

Final preparations for the school carnival to be held on March 11, 12 and 13 will be discussed.

Pre-sale carnival tickets are being sold by many clubs and classes at Serramonte.

The tickets are being sold four for $1 or a family book of 24 for $5.

Junior Rodeo Seeks Queen

Entries are now being accepted in the contest for queen of the Junior Grand National Livestock Exposition, to be held April 1-5, at the San Francisco Cow Palace. Deadline is March 15.

The contest is open to girls 14-18 years of age, who are members of a 4-H Club or Future Farmers of America, and will be exhibitors at the 1977 Junior Grand National.

The queen will play a prominent role in the events that will highlight the nation's largest youth-oriented stock show. She will preside during livestock judgments, auctions, and the awards banquet.

and will be introduced to thousands of spectators at the California High School Rodeo Regional Finals.

Contestants will be interviewed by a panel of judges on March 22 at the Cow Palace, and will be judged on poise, personality and livestock achievements.

Most Classes Ever in JUHSD Adult School

More than 300 classes — the most ever — will be offered in adult day and evening schools in the Jefferson Union High School District in Daly City and Pacifica during the spring quarter, which begins the week of March 14-18.

People come for information, for fun, for job skills, for recreation skills, to get in shape physically, to be stimulated mentally, to learn everything from a foreign language to rock climbing to writing to psychology to auto repair.

Evening classes are held at Westmoor, Serramonte, Jefferson, Terra Nova and Oceana Adult Schools, and the fast-expanding daytime program operates out of a number of locations in the community.

Some of the new classes being offered:

Monday evenings — Genealogy, a six-week course on Tracing Your Ancestry; a four-week course on new methods of learning First Aid; and Macrame.

Tuesday evenings — Folk Literature: Legends and Fairy Tales, focusing on monsters and strange creatures.

Wednesday evenings — A combined scuba and skin diving course: Transactional Analysis/Personal Communications, described as a "new way to know yourself and others;" Television and Its Effect on Children; The California Sampler, presenting the state's natural and human history.

Thursday evenings — Weaving with a simple frame loom and techniques of tapestry; Conversational Filipino (Tagalog); Pharmacology Review for Registered Nurses.

A brochure listing all classes will be mailed to every home this week for those residents who live in Daly City, Pacifica and Brisbane.

YEP: Summer Jobs Set for Teens

Some 1,200 economically disadvantaged San Mateo County youths are expected to participate in the county's Youth Employment Program (YEP) this summer.

The U.S. Department of Labor has announced that the County Manpower Office, which administers the program, will be receiving $1,121,686 this year, a 10 per cent increase over last year.

The Manpower Office contracts with the County Office of Education to direct the program through the YEP Office at 450 Peninsula Ave., San Mateo.

Marlene Shigekawa of the YEP administrative staff said the funds provide short-term work experience for disadvantaged youth with some 200 public and private nonprofit agencies throughout the county.

Participating youths work in "virtually every field of endeavor," Ms. Shigekawa said, learning specific skills and work habits which will assist them in obtaining permanent employment later. The jobs pay youths between the ages of 14 and 21 the minimum wage of $2.50 an hour.

Sometimes the job experience leads to full-time employment with the agency for which the participants work during the summer. Ms. Shigekawa cited an example of the Guadalupe Health Center in Daly City which asked its YEP enrollees to become fulltime employees.

She said youths in the program work for such diversified agencies as the U.S. Geological Survey in Menlo Park, high schools, city police and public works departments and social service agencies, such as Mothers for Equal Education and the Serenity Corporation drug abuse program, doing principally clerical and maintenance work.

Also, the program provides the opportunity for some YEP enrollees to attend Skyline, San Mateo and Canada colleges for remedial course in English and mathematics and for vocational guidance.

John Wallace of the County Manpower Office said it will take about six weeks to plan the program for this summer.

The YEP places newspaper advertisements seeking requests from nonprofit public and social service agencies to participate in the YEP and citing the type of program which would be offered youths. The YEP staff evaluates the proposals and selects the participating agencies.

William Haltigan, regional administrator for the Department of Labor's Employment and Training Administration, said agencies which administer the program are being asked this year to improve the design of summer programs by:

- Establishing as part of the overall planning council a youth planning council to work with the school system, community agencies, business groups, unions and employment services.

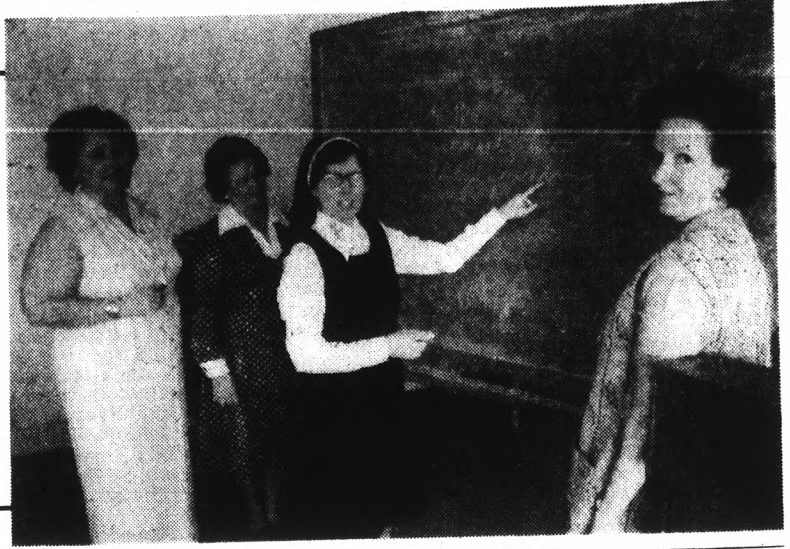

- Improving outreach and selection techniques to facilitate the recruitment of economically disadvantaged youths.

- Providing labor market orientation for summer program participants.

- Upgrading the quality of work sites and supervision for work experience programs.

Housing Caution Is Urged

"We may be using the turtle approach to get there faster in the long run."

Those were the words of Daly City City Atty. Albert Polonsky last week to the City Council after he suggested the city slow down on rehabilitating housing.

It had been expected that the council would accept a select citizens' committee report on rehabilitation of deteriorating homes at next week's regular council meeting.

Following acceptance of the report, the council also had been expected to approve the program, which would make low-interest home improvement loans available to qualified applicants.

The screening of applicants has been under way for several weeks.

Polonsky warned the council, however, that all the work that has gone into the program could be lost if it were learned later on "down the line" that certain technical matters had not been properly resolved.

"I want authorization from the council to check this out at every stage to insure that everything is in order," Polonsky said.

He assured the council he is not trying to delay this program. "I'd rather do it right," he said.

"By a two-months' delay now, we may be preventing disaster at a later date," Polonsky said.

Councilman William Schumacher said it was the council's desire to expedite this program. He asked that the issues be resolved quickly.

Bonds are needed to finance the housing rehabilitation program and Polonsky said he feared the sale of bonds could be upset by some small technicality.

He asked that the matter be looked at by a bond counsel at each phase of the program as insurance against anything going wrong.

There were, at last count, some 600 homes in various states of deterioration in Daly City — from moderately deteriorating to dilapidated.

SSF Embarks on Long-Range Development

By JANET PARKER

A two-year study of a career development program for South San Francisco's 70 police officers was released this week. It is designed to be implemented over a five-year period.

If implemented in its entirety, Police Chief James Datzman explained, the program would cost $319,218.

The chief said the plan would build "a model police department."

Although career development programs have been studied in police departments throughout the state, Datzman said he believes this is the first program completely designed by officers.

The proposal includes hiring of 15 police service technicians to relieve sworn officers of routine responsibilities, and reclassifying 17 positions as "police agents" with salaries 10 per cent above that of patrol officers.

"We are realistic enough to realize that there's no way the city could increase our budget by $300,000," Datzman acknowledged in releasing the report, but, the report can serve as a format for structuring the department when, and if, funds do become available.

The chief called the plan "vitaly important from a law enforcement standpoint."

Datzman said he will meet with City Manager Walter Birkelo to discuss realistic approaches to implementing at least a portion of the study's findings.

As the department grew, he said, the opportunities for promotion and assignments other than patrol increased.

Since 1971, he said, the number of sworn personnel has been unchanged.

While the educational levels and professional abilities of all personnel have increased, the number of openings in specialized positions has decreased.

In a 1974 questionnaire, police officers requested a career development program, Tognetti said.

The task force was composed of 10 department personnel, including Datzman and Tognetti. The implementation of a police agent position, Tognetti said, would increase opportunities for the patrol officer.

"Unfortunately, our historical operating style has resulted in a citizen's view of the career patrolman as the 'guy who never got anywhere,'" the report stated.

"Many officers encounter personal frustration as a result of the lack of opportunity to demonstrate individual capabilities in a variety of law enforcement functions," it continued.

In the last 14 months, Tognetti said, three highly motivated officers have moved to other police departments in Northern California because of greater opportunities for advancement.

In the proposal, six detectives, six patrol team leaders, two traffic team leaders, the court officer, the permits and license officer, and the personnel and training specialist would become "police agents."

Compensation for those positions now varies from the equivalent of a patrol officer to 10 per cent above a patrol officer. In the proposal, all would be compensated at 10 per cent above patrol officers, at an annual cost of $24,262.

It now costs the city about $24,000 for recruitment, training, examinations and salary every time an officer must be replaced, Tognetti said.

With all the 17 officers compensated the same, rotation between the positions would be possible, he said.

The task force also predicts the format will improve officer morale, provide a better opportunity for officers to participate in major investigations and create an additional level of recognition within the police officer classification.

"It's less likely officers will want to go somewhere else if they find the opportunities here," Tognetti said.

The second primary recommendation of the task force is to hire non-sworn police service technicians. At this time, the report stated, police officers spend as much as 50 per cent of their time in routine duties. These duties, the task force said, can be handled by non-sworn technicians.

It is predicted this would relieve police officers for thousands of hours a year. Technicians would be hired at a cost of $15,000 a year for salary and benefits — $4,000 less than for a police officer.

"It is realized from a financial standpoint it would be impractical to hire such a number of personnel at one time," the report stated. The department has been seeking a grant to hire the technicians, but so far has been unsuccessful.

The task force also proposes increasing sergeants' salaries by 6.1 per cent at a cost of $14,778 a year. Sergeants now make 3.9 per cent more than detectives, although their responsibilities are greater, the report stated.

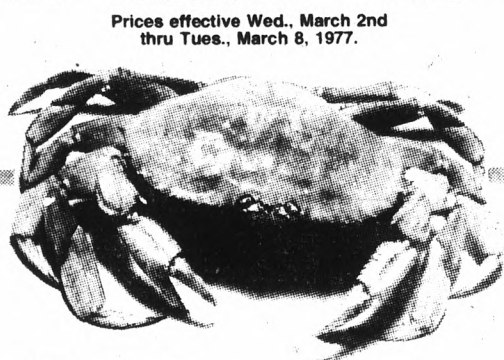

Also proposed is promoting the training manager from sergeant to lieutenant at an annual cost of $2,877.

The informal rap meeting may cover issues such as holiday celebrations, relationships with in-laws, synagogue or church participation, involvement in sectarian organizations and child-raising dilemmas.

This discussion will be held in a relaxed and informal setting.

For further information and to R.S.V.P., call the center at 334-7474.

Hold it! If you are headed for the Westlake Senior Citizens Club meeting today, take off your coat and relax. Today's meeting has been cancelled.

Mrs. Millie Machens, president of the group, has announced that there will be no meeting this week but on March 9 the club will be back in the Westlake area, meeting in the basement of the Our Lady of Mercy parish school.

Plans for several trips and spring activities will be on the agenda of that first March meeting. Mrs. Ernestine Vetter, the publicity chairman, urges you to attend.

Want to live up the family menus? Sister Irmaly Benkert, Adult Education Director for St. Andrews' Community, announced that a new class in cooking began yesterday and there is still time for you to enroll.

Class members will learn Chinese and Filipino cooking. Before the course is concluded, all participants will be proficient in making crepes, bread and homemade noodles. If you are interested, call 756-3223 for more information between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. any weekday. Fee for the class will be $5 per person.

Members of the Mary's Help Hospital Guild will be returning this afternoon from a two-day junket to Reno for "R and R."

Next fun event on the guild's calendar is a Day at the Races to be held on March 23. Mrs. Virginia Politz will chair the arrangements for that event.

Be sure and circle March 12-13, for the second annual League of Women Voters Rummage Sale.

Mrs. Troy Daniels promises that it will be bigger and better than ever before. A terrific selection of quality used and new items will be displayed for sale in the OICW Job Training Center, 217 E. Grand Ave., in South San Francisco.

Mrs. Don Fleming of Daly City and Mrs. George Avanesian of South San Francisco are accepting calls from people wishing to donate items to the sale. Proceeds will be used to further the programs and services of the League of Women Voters in North San Mateo County.

For information about the local chapter of the League, call Mrs. Beverly Walker or Mrs. Connie Hammerman.

The Daly City Senior Citizens Group, sponsored by the Daly City Parks and Recreation Department, is preparing for a busy March.

Mrs. Louise Buttle, publicity chairman, notes that members will be seeing a Bi-Centennial movie at the clubhouse for one Wednesday meeting. On another meeting day, a PG&E representative will demonstrate efficient cooking for two.

On March 18 a junket is planned for Canada College and on March 24 members will visit Sacramento.

More information is available about the club from the Department of Parks and Recreation or from Mrs. Virgel Davis, club president.

Spring cleaning time and appeals from the Friends of the Daly City Library for donations of books, records and sheet music seem to coincide each year.

Mrs. Olga Canada, chairwoman of the annual Book Fair, reports that the fund raising event will be held in the Westlake Shopping Center Mall on May 13 and 14.

Mrs. Virginia Tierney, Mrs. Denise Schwarzbach, Arthur Armitage, Mrs. Cecelia Enright, Mrs. Ruth Giammona and Ellyn Canada work regularly to process books for the sale. This year they have indicated that there is a special need for donations of more cookbooks, art and gardening books, home decorations, foreign language and children's books. Sets of encyclopedias are especially welcome.

Donations may be left in any library branch.

Tickets are now available for a testimonial dinner honoring retiring Balboa Coach Archie Chagonjian, to be held on March 25 in the Italian American Social Club, San Francisco.

Tickets to the dinner, which is being sponsored by the Balboa Boosters in cooperation with the Balboa Alumni Association and the physical education department of Balboa High School, are available from the alumni office, 1000 Cayuga Ave., for $11 per person. Ticket sale ends on March 17.

Lion Bert Hope was the guest speaker at the Daly City Host Lions Club's dinner observing the advent of Chinese New Year.

Hope, formerly president of the first Lion's Club in Hong Kong, spoke about his recent visit to that city. New lioness Janice Tierney, a senior at San Francisco State University, spoke on Chinese art.

Mrs. Pat Hansen and Mrs. Virginia Tierney were the hostesses for the dinner which was held in the King Wah Restaurant. Mrs. Aine Beaumont, May Charett and Mrs. Esther Nolan won small Chinese style floral arrangements and Mrs. Nanda Stewart won the door prize, a colorful poster of the Year of the Serpent.

Angie Tate, Bob Foiles, Jim Theis and Kitty Milani have been honored by the Daly City-Colma Exchange Club as high school seniors who have shown exceptional leadership qualities through performance and example.

The young people were honored at luncheons held in Val's Restaurant in Daly City. Each is now eligible for a $100 scholarship which will be granted by the club in June.

NEW OFFICER

Assistant Chief Richard C. Sims is shown administering the oath of office of Police Officer John F. Warren who was hired to fill the last vacancy in the Daly City Police Department. When Officer Warren and the other members of the recruit class complete their training and graduate from the Police Academy, the department will be up to authorized strength for the first time since 1974.

Local Letter Carrier Gets Union Position

Daly City letter carrier S. D. 'Sut' Chalos has been appointed regional administrative assistant to National Business Agent Anthony Tripolino of Los Angeles for the National Association of Letter Carriers, AFL-CIO.

Chalos' responsibilities cover the states of California, Nevada and Hawaii, where he will represent letter carriers in the field of labor relations, as well as conducting training seminars and instructional schools for the letter carriers.

A 14-year veteran of the Daly City Post Office, Chalos has served as local and state officer for the mail carriers union. He has attended the University of San Francisco Labor-Management School and has completed a course in Arbitration.

Born and raised in San Francisco, Chalos has resided in Daly City for 27 years with his wife Mary, a teacher in the Jefferson Elementary School District. He has one son, Dean, living at home, and another married son residing in La Honda.

Chalos' appointment was announced by NALC National President, J. Joseph Vacca in Washington, D.C.

Library Rental Service

So that more may read new books while they are still on the bestseller lists, The Friends of the Daly City Library have funded a Pay-Duplicate Rental Collection at the Westlake Library offering extra copies of the library's most popular titles.

The collection will be inaugurated during Library Week, April 17-23.

A charge will be made of 35 cents a book for the first three days and 10 cents a day thereafter.

New books, bestsellers, popular titles and other books in demand will be included in the collection.

Fees charged for rental will be added to the Friends' donation to purchase additional books, and no tax money will be used.

These books will be in addition to and will in no way impair the library's free circulating copies which may still be reserved as usual.

The collection has been established because of an evident demand. For instance, nine copies of "Roots" by Alex Haley are in existence in the Daly City Libraries, with a long waiting list for copies of the book in each branch.

Similar collections have been successful in other public libraries, including those in San Mateo, Menlo Park and San Leandro.

The Friends' committee members for this collection are Verna Teglia, president; Virginia Tierney, vice president; and Esther Hough, director.

Librarians John Sullivan and Adrienne Savetnick have served as library liaisons.

First Aid For Tired Begonias

A workshop on begonias will be the program of the San Francisco Begonia Society at 8 p.m. today at the Hall of Flowers, Ninth Avenue and Lincoln Way.

Pruning, transplanting and grooming will be discussed by the experts. Propagation of the cuttings will be shown.

Bring in your sad and ailing plants.

There will also be a plant table and refreshments. All are welcome.

Livestock for Sale at Expo

Animal auction days at the 31st annual Junior Grand National Livestock Exposition have been set for Monday and Tuesday, April 4-5, at the San Francisco Cow Palace, General Chairman Darrel Chapman and Cow Palace Board of Directors President Jack Cooke have announced.

"Each year, more than 1,500 animals raised by 4-H and Future Farmers of America youth, must be auctioned off," said Cooke. "The highlights of the annual auction are the 'Super Six'—the champion and reserve champion in steers, hogs, and lambs, and we hope to get outstanding prices for these animals this year.

"We invite the public (companies and individuals) to purchase one or more of these animals. We invite companies to send a representative to bid on any of our 'Super Six'—an exciting auction event with many rewards," Cooke added.

Cooke said the most outstanding animals go for higher prices, but the majority of animals can be bought at market prices, plus a nominal fee. Arrangements can be made very easily with packing houses and preparation for freezers.

The Junior Grand National is the most significant show of its kind in the United States, and the economic aspect is the successful selling of these products so carefully raised by our young people, the future of agriculture in California," Cooke said.

Complete information about 'how to buy' Junior Grand National meat is available by writing Livestock Department, Cow Palace, Box 34206, San Francisco 94134.

Pee-Wee League Sticks to Decision

Nell Norton

Good morning, good cooks.

The cooking term . . . to braise has long been associated with beef. To most cooks it means a combination of baking and steaming. In the old days a special pan was used which had a sunken lid for holding live charcoal. Heat was applied from both top and bottom. In this day and age of convenience, any heavy pan with a tight fitting lid will do — a dutch oven, glass cookware, enamel over iron ware, clay pots, etc. Choose your own pan, a thrifty boneless beef chuck roast and try your luck at braising this delicious recipe. It was developed in the consumer service department of the California Beef Council.

BRAISED BEEF

2½ pounds boneless beef chuck roast
1½ teaspoons garlic salt

- ½ teaspoon lemon pepper
- 1 teaspoon chili powder
- ½ teaspoon paprika
- 1 large onion, sliced
- 1 (8-ounce) can stewed tomatoes
- ½ cup white wine or broth
- 2 tablespoons vinegar
- ½ cup catsup
- 1 tablespoon prepared mustard
- 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce

Place small dutch oven or casserole in 350-degree oven to heat while preparing beef. Rub the beef with the one and one-half teaspoons garlic salt and half teaspoon lemon pepper, one teaspoon chili powder and half teaspoon paprika. Place in hot dutch oven.

Combine the sliced onion, eight ounces stewed tomatoes, half cup white wine, two tablespoons vinegar, half cup catsup, one tablespoon each prepared mustard and worcestershire sauce and pour over beef.

Cover tightly and bake for 2 hours or until beef is tender and sauce thickens.

Makes 6 servings.

After its meeting with two city councilmen this week, the South San Francisco Pee Wee League Board of Directors stuck to its decision to eliminate one team from the league.

It still appears that the Ryan Realty Pee-Wee League team is out of the action this year, although league officials are assuring parents a team will be found for every member of the former Ryan club who wants to play again this year.

League president Jerry Roesli said the directors have not changed their two-week-old decision barring Ryan Realty's team sponsor and manager Jim Daley from the league.

"At this point," Roesli said, "Mr. Daley is out of the league. But the children who were on that team are still able to play in that league. We are not banning the children."

One of the councilmen who participated in the meeting, Emanuele

Damonte, said he was a little disappointed that the directors didn't consider other alternatives.

"Mr. Borba and I both realized we had no legal jurisdiction over their decision," Damonte said. Councilman William Borba had joined Damonte in the meeting with the directors. Daley and Ryan Realty team parent Jim Griffin Tuesday night.

Last week, about 15 adults attended a City Council meeting to protest that the Ryan Realty Pee-Wee League team had been unjustly removed from the league.

They claimed that the ouster resulted from an ongoing personality clash between Roesli and Daley, and then asked the council to intervene and save the team.

However, Roesli later said the team was removed because Daley had refused to adhere to league rules. Since no other sponsor for the team was available to foot the bills, the team was dropped, he said.

However, Roesli said, all the players still eligible for Pee-Wee League would be automatically placed on other teams.

The league tryouts start Saturday. Damonte said the directors promised to make a sincere effort to get a 16th team sponsor to replace Ryan Realty.

The councilmen asked the Pee-Wee League board to devise written by-laws for the league to prevent future clashes.

"We did everything possible to try and help them," Mayor Leo Padreddi said.

"We're proceeding on schedule," Roesli said. However, he added, the directors will attempt to meet with all the team managers before Saturday to discuss Tuesday's meeting.

Roesli said he has been receiving calls from parents who object to the preentation made to the council last week.

One parent, Pat Sullivan, said Griffin and his group do not represent all Ryan Realty parents.

Le Pacini

Joe Roth was a remarkable athlete and a remarkable human being — not necessarily in that order. Playing quarterback for Cal as well as he did for the past two seasons was remarkable in itself. Playing with the threat of terminal cancer hanging over his head was unbelievable.

In the purely athletic sense, Roth was one helluva passing quarterback.

During his junior year, when Cal really should have gone to the Rose Bowl. Roth was eighth in the nation in passing and ninth in total offense, despite the fact that he wasn't starting early in the season. He completed 126 passes in 226 attempts (55.8 percentage), for 14 TD's and 1880 yards gained, which broke down to 14.9 yards per completion, 8.3 per attempt.

He had more to work with then, including Chuck Muncie, who not only caught clutch passes but took the pressure off with his great running ability.

This past season, despite missing a couple of games with injuries, despite the cancer, despite the loss of Muncie, as well as prime, third-down receiver Steve Rivera from the year before, and despite playing half a season without his great deep threat for the past two seasons, Wesley Walker, Roth was again in the top 10 in the country in passing and total offense. He completed 154 of 295 (52.2) for 1789 yards, breaking down to 11.6 per completion, 6.1 per attempt.

I don't ever again want to hear an athlete brag about playing "hurt."

SPECIAL MOMENTS IN SPORTS — (As telecast every Wednesday and Thursday at 7:30 p.m. and 6:30 p.m., respectively, San Francisco cablevision, channel 6, on Ken Dito's "Spotlight on Sports.")

Sports And Recreation

It was March 2, 1962, at little Hershey Arena in little Hershey, Penn., and the New York Knickerbockers were playing the Philadelphia Warriors, two teams going nowhere in the NBA standings, in a nowhere town in a nowhere gym on a neutral site which appeared only on the larger road maps. It was hardly a setting for a memorable, historic and special moment in sports.

About all that either team had going for the small crowd was the Warriors' 7-ft., 1-in. center, Wilt the Stilt Chamberlain, the biggest man in basketball, and the most dominant offensive player in the history of the game.

But even Chamberlain didn't promise to be anything special that night. Hadn't he already shattered Elgin Baylor's phenomenal one game scoring record of 71, in December, when Wilt had scored 78 against Los Angeles? And hadn't he beaten Baylor's two-year-old record for a second time in January with a 73 point outburst against Chicago?

But the odds were wrong, and Chamberlain went on a tear that night that no basketball scoring machine has ever approached, except Chamberlain himself. At the end of the first quarter he had scored 23 points. By halftime, he had 41. But in the second half, he REALLY got hot, and, just 42 seconds before the game ended, he hit the century mark, scoring 100 points to lead Philadelphia to a 169-147 Victory. His 31 points in the fourth quarter established a still-standing record for scoring in one quarter. His 59 points that half had established another still-standing record.

He had scored a still-established record of 36 field goals on 63 attempts. And Chamberlain, whom many consider the worst free throw shooter in the history of the NBA, even sank a still-standing record of 28 free throws on only 32 tries. He even managed to make two assists and pull in 25 rebounds!

And who was the second leading scorer on the Philadelphia club that night? An obscure young guard who had manufactured a perfect game of his own, hitting on eight of eight field goal attempts and one of one free throws. His name was Alvin Attles.

WHEN I called Chamberlain the most dominant offensive player in the history of the game, I wasn't talking about him just to that point in history. That is also a present tense statement. If you don't believe me, browse through the NBA Guide some time in the records section. The Stilt still holds most of the significant scoring records, despite the advent of Kareem Abdul Jabbar. As a matter of fact, going into this season, Chamberlain was still holding on to his record career scoring average of 30.1 points per game. Jabbar had an even 30.0, and is not catching up this year.

To give you some inkling of Chamberlain's impact on scoring in pro basketball (I won't even talk about the rebounding records he still holds), consider this: of the 16 top totals for most points scored in a single game, Chamberlain holds 15 of them; of the top 29, he holds 23; of the top 39, he holds 32; of the top 56, he holds 49; of the top 92, he holds 72.

Actually, of the top 95 best single game scoring marks, Jabbar holds only one, and he just sneaks in at the 55 point mark, at which the record book draws the line.

Baylor is closest to Chamberlain's 72 top games, with five, while Rick Barry is the only other player to break the 55 point mark more than once. He's done it four times.

ONE MORE COMMENT on USF, apropos of the column last week in which I commented that the Dons had acquired a syndrome I named "The Curse of the Winner." That, of course, is when it is no longer good enough that a recognized outstanding team merely win, but that they win big, especially against some of the weaker teams on their schedule.

The Dons have had several minor "scare" this year against weaker teams. That has nothing to do with whatever weaknesses USF may have. I remind you that it is a cliché but a universally accepted fact in athletics that the really talented teams and/or individuals always play better against stiff competition. Good opponents always wring out the creative juices.

Some of the worst prize fights I've seen occurred when a fine fighter was made to look terrible — despite the fact that he won — by a ham an' eggier club fighter.

Of course, a lot of that has to do with styles, known in basketball as "match-ups," but that is another whole story good enough for a column in itself.

EXCUSE ME FOR a little chauvinism, but I believe Italians have now reached an all-time high in number of major league baseball managers extant in one season. With the Giants signing Joe Altobelli, the Cubs grabbing former Giant manager Herman Franks, and the Dodgers finally promoting coach Tommy Lasorda, that makes five, when added to Philadelphia's Frank Lucchesi and the Yankees' Billy Martin; both, of course, Bay Area products.

TAG END: More next week, but a quick reminder that the 28th Annual Mission High School Athletic Alumni dinner will happen at the Seven Hills Restaurant in San Francisco on March 11. For further information, contact Charlie Hansen (681-0769) or George Wolfman (863-6903).

Williams Heads All-County

No high school basketball player in the County received more loving attention this year than Sid Williams.

On blackboards throughout the Mid-Peninsula League, he was the "O" surrounded by two or three "X" defenders.

Blackboard strategy almost always failed against him.

It wasn't just that the Aragon senior center was tall (four other players in the Mid-Peninsula League alone matched his 6-5 stature and one was taller) and it wasn't just that he could shoot (the County was full of shooters).

He was dangerous — almost unstoppable — because he was tall AND he could shoot AND he could go up high over tremendous pressure to get a shot off AND he could make a telling defensive play once in a while even though he didn't play aggressively enough to risk fouling out (Aragon would have been in severe trouble if he had).

It was apparent weeks ago that Williams would be the 1977 Post All-County Most Valuable Player — and nothing has happened since to change that.

Joining Williams on the first team are 6-0 senior Serra guard Pete Doherty, 6-5 Serra senior center Gerald Simien, and (a rare circumstance) two juniors — 6-2 Capuchino guard Mike Mitchell and 6-1 San Carlos guard-forward Tod Sedlacek.

Williams, often a one-man offense, scored 30 or more points in 13 of Aragon's 22 games. He scored 326 points in the MPL this season, the second-best single season effort in MPL history (only Hillsdale's Rod Williams ever surpassed that) and he tallied 674 points in his MPL career (also second only to Rod Williams). His MPL average this season was 27.2.

One opposing MPL coach contemplated the fact that Williams will be graduating this year. His only comment: "Thank God."

Cap's Mitchell made a big splash in his first varsity season — as expected, Mitchell was a complete ball-player, but his most obvious talent was offensive — he was so good and so consistent with his assists that Cap Coach Jimmy Johnson once said he wished Mitchell would shoot more.

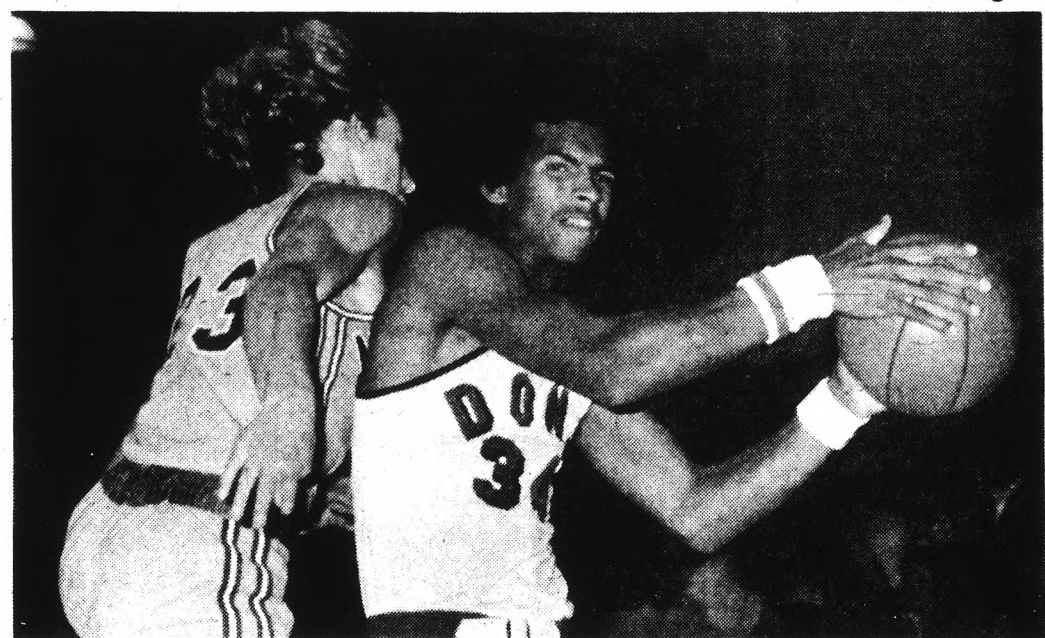

And Mitchell did lead the Central Coast Section in points scored — 659 of them in 29 games for a 22.7 average. Not bad for a junior.

The statistics are less gaudy for Simien and Doherty, who made a solid but conservative Serra team go places — right to the West Catholic Athletic League title game.

Simien was third in WCAL scoring (14.1 per game), second in field goal percentage (.580) and second in rebounding (11.1). Simien got in foul trouble once in a while, and when he sat down the Padres had problems. His offensive range was limited, but he got points when they were needed.

Defensively, he was a bear. If he hadn't been able to play well against 6-8 MVP Dave Parrott of Mitty, Serra would never have been able to beat Mitty twice.

Doherty's contributions are harder to find in statistical tables. He averaged 10.8 points per game (though he was a good enough shooter to have scored many more in a less controlled offense). But a 10.8 average is not a strong All-County recommendation.

It was all the other things Doherty did — play tremendous defense, direct the team, recognize and direct the breaking of full-court presses, feed the big men inside. . . . Doherty did all this well and consistently under great pressure.

Padre Coach Pat McGlennon said that of all the players he'd coached none beat Doherty for heart. Doherty just happened to have court intelligence and talent too.

San Carlos suffered a disappointing finish in the South Peninsula Athletic League, being ached out of a playoff spot at the 11th hour when another team's forfeits let Woodside squeak past.

But there was nothing disappointing about Sedlacek's play — all season long.

"With Tod out of the game our offense falls apart," said Don Coach Dan Silva. "I learned that he has to be in the game at all times. Without him we're in trouble."

Sedlacek scored 443 points in 23 games for a 19.3 average. He led the SPAL in scoring (18.7 per game) and also in rebounds (10.3 per game). The latter figure is impressive for a 6-1 swing man.

Sedlacek already has 688 career points, and he has another year to play. No San Carlos player has ever scored 1,000 points, but at this rate it looks like Sedlacek has a pretty good shot.

NPL Girls' Basketball

Warriors Win in OT

The North Peninsula League girls' basketball playoff final was a typical Donnybrook between two of the league's tri-champions, South San Francisco and Terra Nova, Friday night at El Camino High; determined South City overcame a feisty Tiger five in overtime, 64-59.

South City will represent the league in the Central Coast Section Region I playoffs next week.

Neither team could stake itself to more than a four-point lead in regulation play Friday night.

One of Terra Nova's runners and gunners, Jill Luc-chetti, ran into all-league guard Robin Petrini on a drive to the basket in the second period. Both went down, but only Petrini came back up as Lucchetti, who had just come back from ankle ligament damage, was taken to the hospital with a possible fractured ankle.

All-leaguers Becky Myers and Moe Turner kept Terra Nova neck-and-neck with South City. But the Warriors, with nine seconds left in regulation play and a two-point lead, took down a defensive rebound that looked like the game clinching play.

Tiger forward Turner ripped off the ensuing outlet to suddenly tie the game up and send everybody into overtime.

With half of the three-minute overtime gone and with SSF clinging to a one-point lead, Warrior center Kim Rickman fouled out to join Petrini on City's disqualification list.

"It was now or never, right then and there," said SSF veteran coach Ann Stuka. "With two of our strong players on the bench, we had to show real strength of character and go out and get this game. I'm glad Beth (Damonte, who paced SSF with 20 points) and Jeri (Kalvig) decided to play their best games of the season tonight."

As the seconds ticked off, senior Gail Nutting picked up a loose ball and threw up a baseline prayer that went through the cords to ice the game. A meaningless layup at the buzzer resulted in the final five-point spread.

"I was yelling at the team to work the clock down at the end," explained Stuka, "and I almost died when Gail took that shot at the end with 22 seconds left on the shot-clock (the girls play with a 30-second clock). But it went in, thank goodness."

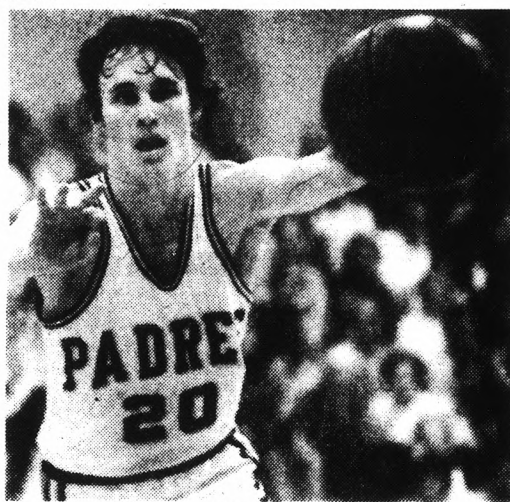

In NPL junior varsity action Westwood devastated El Camino, 41-22, and was scheduled to meet round-robin winner SSF today at 2 p.m. at El Camino for the league title.

BRIGHT LIGHTS BY LLOYD JOHNSON

Vince's Rates High On Peninsula Dining

VINCE'S SEAFOOD and ITALIAN restaurant in San Mateo rates among the Peninsula's top restaurants for outstanding food and service. The menu selection of seafood dishes, Italian specialties, steaks, and between-meal snacks is available seven days a week. Visit Vince's Depot next door for fresh seafood to take out....BARNEY'S and the SOUTH TAHOE NUGGET enjoyed one of the best weekend holiday rushes in the history of the clubs. Owners ELIZABETH CHARTRAND and ROBERT BERRY report that the South Lake Tahoe scene resembled a New Orleans Mardi Gras....MARK NOVAK, general manager of the RAMADA INN on San Francisco's Fisherman's Wharf, is introducing a new "Teen Disco" happening this Sunday from 1 to 6 p.m., and every Sunday thereafter. The young set is invited to dance to their hearts content. Only soft drinks will be served. Plenty of free parking in the Inn's garage....THE RED CARPET HOT DOG AND PIZZA, one of nine dining spots located in the GARDEN RESTAURANT complex at TANFORAN PARK Shopping Center, San Bruno, would also like you to try their breakfast features, which includes omelettes. As for pizza and hot dogs, the 50-cent discount dinner coupon found in today's "Bright Lights" may be applied towards any purchase over one dollar.

Murray Lehr Receives Unique Commendation

One reason why LEHR'S GREENHOUSE Garden restaurant in San Francisco is so popular among visitors from around the world is that all of the waiters speak at least two languages and many are fluent in three or four. The U.S. Department of Commerce acknowledged this important service to visitors from abroad by presenting Owner MURRAY LEHR, "The Green Grower," with a special commendation....Cedrick Hardman, veteran mainstay of the San Francisco 49ers defensive line, was a recent dinner guest at SCOTTY CAMPBELL'S. Quality service and food, and the warm hospitality of the owners continues to be a "mainstay" at this superior Redwood City restaurant....This scribe is planning another visit to ENRICO ROMANO'S Rockaway Beach restaurant retreat for an Italian dinner. Through the years, we've watched his menu expand from pizza servings to a la carte and full course meals. A table chat with Enrico is worth the trek in itself....Steak fanciers should try the $3.95 Dinner Special on Mondays at MARTINELLI'S STEAK PIT in Millbrae. Called "Steak a la Martinelli," the dinner is served complete and includes vegetables and spaghetti. Dinner specials are featured nightly, except Saturday....Several luncheon specials are featured from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. at BAYHILL LOUNGE, located in the Bayhill Shopping Center, San Bruno.

Oliver's Owners Winning Combo

LEO CARDOSI and TONY LATORRE, popular owners of OLIVER'S restaurant in South San Francisco, have a winning dine-out combination with the specials named after themselves. LaTorre's menu suggestion is Chicken Saute Sec and Louisiana Prawns on Risotto. Cardosi's special is Veal a la Swiss. Both include a tray of assorted appetizers, soup and salad...."Bright Lights" recently ran a photo of the dining view from NICK GUST'S three Rockaway Beach restaurants, THE MOONRAKER, CAPTAIN CHARLES and NICK'S, which brought many calls of thanks from folks in the Bay Area who had never dined here....YOLANDA'S TERMINAL CAFE, located inside the Produce Market in South San Francisco, features a Roast Sirloin of Beef Special Monday through Thursday which is a wire-to-wire winner. Owner BOB McLANE has priced the dinner, served family-style, at $2.95....PHIL LEHR believes you shouldn't have to pay for more steak than you can eat, so steaks at his famous Pay-By-The-Ounce Steakery, on the lower level of the San Francisco Hilton Tower, Taylor Street entrance, are cut to order — any size — and weighed on a butcher's scale. The weight, in ounces, determines the price of your complete dinner.

Alleged Robbers To Stand Trial

Four persons who allegedly possessed an arsenal of weapons and ammunition when arrested in connection with a San Bruno armed robbery have been ordered to stand trial in San Mateo County Superior Court.

At a preliminary hearing Thursday, North County Municipal Court Judge F. J. deLarios ordered the foursome to appear in Redwood City court for arraignment at 9 a.m. on March 10.

The defendants are Douglas Otten, 19, of Washington; Berry Kern, 21, of Montana; Michael Alg, 23, of Washington; and Debra Threet, 19, of Westminster.

All were charged with armed robbery and possessing stolen property.

San Bruno police arrested the four on Feb. 7 after a clerk at the Cable

Car Motel was robbed of $43.

Officers obtained a court order to force their way into a trailer attached to the car the alleged robbers were driving.

In the rented trailer, they found three sawed-off shotguns, 12 rifles, six knives, three handguns, two hand axes and more than 1,000 rounds of ammunition.

Police said it was one of the biggest arsenals they had ever found.
